

Social Injustice Discussion Panel Reflection

Directions: After you have presented for your discussion panel, you will write a reflection of at least one page, typed and double-spaced, about your discussion and those you listened to. It must be clear that you have put some time and thought into this reflection through the quality of your writing and from the specific examples you use within your reflection. Answer the following questions within your reflection:

1. What was your topic and why did your group decide to discuss this particular topic?
2. After having given your presentation, what do you know or think went well? In other words, in which areas did you and the members of your panel excel? (ex. Strong emotional appeal within presentation, strong logical appeal/support within your presentation, explaining pros and cons of possible solutions, defending your solution, providing historical information, etc.) Provide specific examples of the strengths.
3. Now that you have presented your discussion, reflect on the issues involved with the human injustice your panel presented on that you wish you could strengthen. What are they? How would you strengthen them, and how do you think this would have made for a stronger discussion/presentation?
4. Were there any questions that you were thrown during the question and answer part of your discussion that were difficult for you to answer right away? If so, what were they? (You all have at least one. In other words, don't tell me that you could answer every question with 100% certainty.)
5. Now that you have had time to reflect on the questions, how would you respond differently to this question or these questions?
6. Out of those other discussion panels that you listened to, which had the most impact on you personally? How/why did this impact you?
